Essay Quality Writing

Essay quality generally has at least 3 movements in it.

1. State the topic in such a way that its importance is conveyed.
2. Relate it to the subject at hand, author, reading material (one or all of these)
3. Provide evidence from the literature for your claims and make some claim of your own which is unique.

This unique aspect can be:

A) A continuation of the theme which the author did not get into.

B) A disagreement with the author with stated reasons and evidence (references and quotes).

C) An affirmation of the authors' idea based on a concrete personal experience of the same which supports and gives shape to the authors claims.

In all cases, be sure you understand the authors' claims and that you are representing them accurately.
